Integrating Ignation Values into Inter-Professional Continuing Education for Healthcare Professionals at Creighton University: A Prescription for Lifelong Learning

Abstract: Funds provided by this grant will be utilized in the development of a Health Sciences Continuing Education (HSCE) website which will serve as a resource center for program development and access to a video tutorial that focuses on Ignation values and their impact on inter-professional education. In 2011, Creighton University HSCE was designated a joint accreditation provider of inter-professional continuing education. Creighton University is the only academic university to receive this distinction. HSCE programs will target health professionals, residents, students, community based practitioners, and alumni. Data will be collected in a longitudinal fashion to measure the outcomes of specifically incorporating Ignation values into inter-professional continuing education. This information will also help measure compliance with the HSCE mission.
