The Cooperative Institutional Research Project (CIRP) has designed “constructs” which combine weighted individual survey items into global measures they believe capture the experiences and outcomes which reveal information about the student experience. Two CIRP constructs related to satisfaction are “Satisfaction with Coursework” and “Overall Satisfaction”.

Satisfaction with coursework measures the extent to which students see their coursework as relevant, useful and applicable to their academic success and future plans. The Y axis is defined by the highest and lowest possible construct score. Mean scores are bolded. The numbers at the top and bottom of the vertical line are values for the 75th and 25th percentile.
