Once again, it is time to attend Lab Safety Training. Please note that everyone that enters a laboratory must complete Lab Safety Training once per calendar year. This includes anyone entering a lab to perform work, make a delivery, show a contractor around, etc.

The Department of Environmental Health and Safety is pleased to announce that this year’s training, and all future lab safety training, will be online.

The online training can be accessed from the following location:
http://www.creighton.edu/adminfinance/facilities/ehs/training/online/index.php or from the link on the main EH&S webpage (http://www.creighton.edu/ehs).

You will need to take TWO modules:
LAB SAFETY FOR VISITORS and RADIATION SAFETY BASIC EDUCATION VIDEO

One change is that there will be a quiz at the end of the training. The results of the quiz will be emailed to Research Compliance and a score of 80% is needed to pass the course and receive credit.

It should take less than 30 minutes to complete the training and take the quiz.
The training must be completed by December 31, 2009.

Please direct any questions or comments about this new training to me or to John Baxter.
