Whether you are a student of Science, Business, Politics, History or Art, Creighton University’s Russian Language Program can offer you skills that can enhance your opportunities for work, travel, business and education.

Why Study Russian?

- Russian is one of the six official languages of the United Nations.
- It is the most geographically widespread language of Eurasia and is the most widely spoken of the Slavic languages.
- Numerous American companies are flourishing in Russia today and offer tremendous job opportunities for graduates.
- Students of Russian studies have the distinct advantage of approaching Russian fictional and scientific literature, art, music, and film in their social, historical, and linguistic context.

For more information on Russian Program, please visit:

Modern Languages and Literatures Department Website at

http://www2.creighton.edu/ccas/modernlanguages/russian/index.php

Current Course Offerings Include:

- Russian 101: Beginning Russian I
- Russian 102: Beginning Russian II
- Russian 201: Intermediate Russian I
- Russian 202: Intermediate Russian II

Questions ???

Contact:   Dr. Munavvar Dadajanova
Email:     MunavvarDadajanova@creighton.edu
Phone:     280-2759
Website:   https://people.creighton.edu/~mnd81583/index.htm