In Memoriam

Dr. Charles Timberlake (1935-2008)

Dr. Charles Timberlake was professor of history specializing in modern Russia/Soviet Union at the University of Missouri-Columbia (MU) from 1967 to 2004. He also served as chair of the MU history department for four years. He authored a history of Russian Orthodox monasteries and convents since 1917, co-authored a study on the quality of life in Russian rural villages in the former Soviet Union, edited a book on essays on Russian liberalism, and edited a book on Religious and Secular Forces in Late Tsarist Russia. He was the author of more than 40 book chapters and journal articles on socio-economic development in European Russia.

Professor Timberlake lectured abroad at universities in England, Finland, Russia, Georgia, and the People's Republic of China (where he was an honorary professor of history at Lanzhou University in 1991). Professor Timberlake was loved by his students (both undergraduate and graduate) at "Mizzou." His undergraduate course on Stalinist Russia was a popular staple for years. In 1996, he won the MU Byler Distinguished Professor award. In 2000, he won the University of Missouri Alumni Association's Distinguished Faculty Award. And in 2002, he won the MU Provost's Award for Leadership in International Education. In 2002, he won Berea College's Distinguished Alumnus Award.

Professor Timberlake received his BA from Berea College in 1957, a MA from Claremont Graduate School in 1962, and a PhD from the University of Washington (where he studied with Donald Treadgold, a well-known 20th Century Russian history specialist) in 1968. Professor Timberlake was instrumental in helping further the development of the Central Slavic Conference (CSC) from its early years in the 1960s when it was the Bi-State Slavic Conference. He went on to serve as its president on more than one occasion. He was a credit to global education in the United States and abroad and the advancement of Slavic and international studies.

Welcome from the Program Chair

As we gather in St. Louis for the tenth year in a row, the world is in a bit of a mess. There is talk of yet a second financial meltdown looming on the horizon, North Korea and Iran's nuclear weapons programs continue apace, a resurgent Russia has made it clear that it can no longer be counted down or out, and terrorism remains a real and present threat. While these are all troubling issues, they also provide the gist for renewed energy among those of us interested in "things international." It is against this backdrop that we meet for the annual conference of the International Studies Association – Midwest.

We are joined this year by the Central Slavic Conference (CSC). CSC has put together eleven panels and roundtables for this conference, to include a symposium in memory of Prof. Charles Timberlake, University of Missouri. My special thanks go to Jacek Lubecki, President of CSC, for doing such a marvelous job of organizing the CSC contribution to the conference.

This year's ISA-Midwest conference will feature a roundtable on Saturday afternoon reviewing a paper produced by the United States Strategic Command's Global Innovation and Strategy Center (GISC) assessing global nuclear stability (SD01, Roundtable: Nuclear Stability). A related panel is on offer Friday afternoon (FC06, Deterrence, Non-Proliferation, and Disarmament). There are also roundtables and panels on a full range of topics, to include Iran, international terrorism, energy politics, and global governance.

As in past years, the ISA-Midwest is offering several panels and roundtables on the profession, to include a general discussion on women in international studies (FB06, Women in International Studies) as well as roundtables on teaching and mentoring, to include a roundtable on teaching at a small school (SC02, Roundtable: Teaching at a Small School, Rewards and Challenges). There are also a number of special events. The ISA-Midwest reception will be held Friday night, followed by an address from ISA Vice President Mark Boyer, University of Connecticut. The Quincy Wright Distinguished Scholar Award Luncheon on Saturday will honor Prof. John T. Ishiyama from the University of North Texas. Prof. Ishiyama is a long-time member and past president of the ISA-Midwest. This event is by reservation only.

All together, this year's ISA-Midwest promises to provide an energetic forum for presenting one's ideas and networking. I welcome you to St. Louis, and I wish you a profitable and enjoyable conference!

Conference Honorees

The Quincy Wright Distinguished Scholar Award

The Quincy Wright Distinguished Scholar Award is given annually to a scholar who has significantly influenced international studies scholarship in the ISA-Midwest region. The Quincy Wright Distinguished Scholar honors a scholar with an exceptional record of scholarship in international studies, a distinguished record of service to the International Studies Association and/or other international affairs organizations, and a record of service within the region.

This year's Quincy Wright Distinguished Scholar is John T. Ishiyama, Professor of Political Science at the University of North Texas. Previously he was Professor of Political Science and Director of the Ronald E. McNair Program at Truman State University from 1990-2008. Prof. Ishiyama received his Ph.D. in Political Science from Michigan State University in 1990.

Prof. Ishiyama is a model teacher-scholar. An outstanding classroom instructor, he was selected as the 2004 Missouri Professor of the Year by the Council for the Advancement and Support of Education (CASE) and the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching. He was named a 2003-2004 National Carnegie Foundation Scholar, and he has received the 2003 Allen Fellowship for Faculty Excellence, the 2003 Missouri Governor's Award for Excellence in Teaching, and the 1999 William O'Donnell Lee Award for academic advising. His commitment to teaching is reflected in his numerous publications on curriculum development, educational opportunity, and educational assessment.

A committed scholar and Research Fellow at the University of Kansas' Center for Russian and East European Studies, Prof. Ishiyama is the author or editor of four books and author or co-author of more than 100 book chapters and journal articles on democratization, party politics, ethnic politics, and post-communist Russian, European, and African politics. His research has appeared in the American Political Science Review, Perspectives on Politics; PS: Political Science and Politics, Comparative Political Studies, Comparative Politics, Political Science Quarterly, Political Research Quarterly, Europe-Asia Studies, Party Politics and others.

Prof. Ishiyama recognizes the importance of contributing to the work of advancing our institutions in order to sustain core activities in research and teaching. He is a long-time participant of the ISA-Midwest, and he has served as a past president of the association. He is currently a member of the Executive Council of the American Political Science Association (2007-09) and a member of the Executive Board of Pi Sigma Alpha (the national political science honorary society) (2008-2012). Prof. Ishiyama also serves as Editor-in-Chief (and was founding editor) of the Journal of Political Science Education (Taylor & Francis/Routledge), the journal of the American Political Science Association's (APSA) Political Science Education section. Additionally, he is on the editorial boards of five academic journals, and he is a regular grants reviewer for the National Science Foundation (NSF) and the Federal Department of Education.
