PRESS RELEASE

The Creighton University Department of Fine and Performing Arts and
The Gallery at Bancroft Street Market present:

proportion, $!©

Bridget O’Donnell & Angie Seykora:
BFA Degree Candidates
Fall 2009 Bachelor of Fine Arts Thesis Show

Exhibition location:
The Gallery at Bancroft Street Market
2702 S. 10th Street, Omaha 68108,
(10th and Bancroft near Lauritzen Gardens)
www.bancroftstreetmarket.com

Opening Reception: Saturday, December 5, 2009: 7 pm to 10 pm
Exhibition dates:
Noon - 4pm Saturdays and Sundays
December 6, 2009 through January 3, 2010

Exhibition and Artist Information:
Proportion can be defined as the size of elements and their relationship to one another and the observers’ expectations. The word sic may be used to show that an uncommon or archaic usage is reported faithfully.

Bridget O’Donnell uses the medium of Photography as a means of examining herself and the world around her. Her work deals with concepts of identity and socialization within a world where reality and artificiality are often indistinguishable. O’Donnell will be receiving a BFA with an emphasis in Photography and a BA in English, with an emphasis in Rhetoric and Composition.

Angie Seykora creates organic forms primarily fabricated in welded steel, investigating scale and form through structural compositions. Seykora’s work for this exhibition uses scale contradictions to redefine the known and familiar. Seykora will be receiving her BFA with an emphasis in Sculpture. Her future plans include attending graduate school for the Fine Arts.

For more information please visit http://finearts.creighton.edu, Facebook: Creighton University Lied Art Gallery, or email proportionart@gmail.com

The exhibit is funded in part by the generous support of the Richard and Mary McCormick Endowment for the Fine and Performing Arts, the Grace Keenan Fund and an anonymous source.