Creighton's own "A Company of Dancers" will present premieres in both classical and modern dance styles next month at Joslyn Art Museum.

The company consists of faculty, alumni and students from the Omaha Academy of Ballet, and Creighton dance and art majors.

"We've got a really strong thing going on here and we're doing as much as we can to gain more student support," said Joellen Meglin, instructor of modern dance.

This year their performances will take place on Friday, Nov. 3 at 8 p.m. and Sunday, Nov. 12 at 3 p.m. in the Witherspoon Concert Hall.

Valerie Roche, company director, will premiere a classical ballet solo to the music of Hans Werner Henze which will be performed by classical guitarist Neill Archer Roan.

Meglin will premiere a synthesis of visual art and dance to the music of Mahler. The visual art will be designed by John Thein, assistant professor of fine arts.
