To the editor:
The purpose of this letter is to inform readers that we are organizing "Innovations: New Art Forum."

"Innovations" is an arts festival that will be held May 1 and 2 at 8 p.m. at the Interim Performing Arts Center.
The festival is open to any major and any creative medium as long as the work is of original nature.

There will be a meeting for interested participants on Wednesday, at 10 p.m. in The Drawing Room in Lower Brandeis.
Individual questions and concerns can be addressed at that time.
If you are interested in participating in the festival, but are unable to attend the meeting, please contact one of the signers of this letter.

"Innovations" has a non-competitive format to achieve the following goals:
—To encourage original artwork and provide a place to show it.
—To get new people involved in the arts.
—To raise the visibility of fine arts on campus.
—To get artists from different disciplines working together.
—To demonstrate to the Omaha community that art is "alive and well" on our campus.

Proceeds from "Innovations" will benefit Francis House.
We would appreciate your support by helping us inform anyone who may be interested in participating in the event.
Sincerely, William Cook, Suzanne Dieckman, Michelle Hadley, Laurie B. Steele, Jayne Vonnahme, Marcy Ziska
