Dance concert to be April 23-24

If you are a fan of dance but just don’t have the money to pay to see a good performance, then you should consider going to the student dance concert, which is free.

The student dance concert will be April 23 and 24 at the Interim Performing Arts Center at 8 p.m. The concert is the senior thesis show for Julie Gilligan, who is seeking her Bachelor’s of Fine Arts degree.

The concert is produced by students who plan the choreography, perform and organize the program. They work with faculty and staff on the technical aspects of the performance.

Gilligan will perform three works including a ballet, modern dance and a solo. Each person in the choreography class will participate in the show.

Faculty advisers for the program are Valerie Koche, associate professor of fine arts, and Jill Lile, assistant professor of fine arts.
