"Unveiling" Exhibit Features Black Artists of Nebraska

The fine arts department helped kick-off Black History Month with its February exhibit entitled "Unveiling, Black Artists of Nebraska". Littleton Alston, assistant professor of fine arts, said he believes this collection of artwork comes from three different foundations of inspiration all affected by African heritage, religion and classical art forms.

Right, Marni Raffaelle and Greg Snyder view a piece featured in the "unveiling" exhibit.