

On Saturday April 9, the Lieben Center staff attended the AAUW-Nebraska Spring Conference. The theme of the conference "Voices Shaping Our Future." The Creighton students listened to three panels featuring Economic Parity, Engaged Citizenry, and Relevant Education. Staff had the opportunity to network with passionately involved women in the Nebraska community. The Creighton students plan to bring the skills, rhetoric, and themes back to campus through the center's programming next year. They hope to continue the discussion of the gender wage gap, assist women at all ages, encourage more women to run for executive positions, incorporate discussion of health and wellness, and assist everyone to pursue their passions!
