

M.S. Educational Leadership (EDU)

Program Goals

At the completion of their graduate program, the student will:

1. Graduates will become school leaders whose educational values are based on the Ignatian and Education Department charisms of cura personalis, magis, men and women for others, and contemplation in action.
2. Graduates will become educational leaders who promote the success of all students by enabling a collaborative vision of student success, by sustaining a positive school culture, by effectively managing the school, by responding to diverse community and political interests in the community, and by acting with integrity and fairness.
3. Graduates will be able to propose, conduct, and defend research in the area of school leadership, then communicate knowledge gained to specialized and non-specialized persons alike orally and in writing.
