STAGE PARTY AND FACULTY RECESSIONAL

Omaha Survivors of the Holocaust Accepting the Award, Beatrice Karp

*Presented by Leonard J. Greenspoon, Ph.D.
Klutznick Professor in Jewish Civilization and Professor of Classical & Near Eastern Studies and of Theology*

For more than six decades, historians, political scientists and religious scholars have struggled to recount, document and explain the details of one of the most horrendous chapters in the history of the world – the Holocaust. That the passing of the years could ever dull the memories of World War II or render the Holocaust forgotten, prompts many survivors to share their stories in compelling ways.

Beatrice Karp was only eight years old when she was taken by Nazis. Seventy-five years later, she can still recount in vivid detail how she threw rocks at soldiers in the street and crushed the face of her porcelain doll rather than to hand it over to her captors.

Through Bea's presentations, others come to understand the escalation of hate: how at first, religious observances were banned and then later, how victims of prejudice were taunted; how families were made to feel like outcasts in their own country and how they grew increasingly frightened and insecure, struggling with decisions such as whether to flee or remain in their homes; and finally, how Jewish citizens were brutalized, imprisoned and extinguished.

Through Bea's presentations, audiences begin to comprehend what it meant to endure an existence in which ideals, morals, laws and lives were shattered and reason eclipsed by atrocities both large and small, carried out with disregard for human decency.

Bea Karp is among roughly 200 Holocaust survivors residing in Omaha, Nebraska. Bea, and others like her, are dedicated to honest examination of the past for the preservation of the future and the ultimate benefit of future generations. Survivors' lives provide heartening evidence that the human spirit can survive unfathomable circumstances and persevere.

Creighton University, aspiring not only to educate, but to be a crafter of society, continually seeks to create a more just and peaceful world. In recognition of the resiliency of the human spirit, it honors Omaha area survivors of the Holocaust with the Creighton University Presidential Medallion, this 14th day of May, two thousand and eleven.

HONORARY DEGREE

Rev. John P. Foley, S.J.

*Presented by Timothy J. Cook, Ph.D.
Associate Professor of Education*

Doctor of Humane Letters

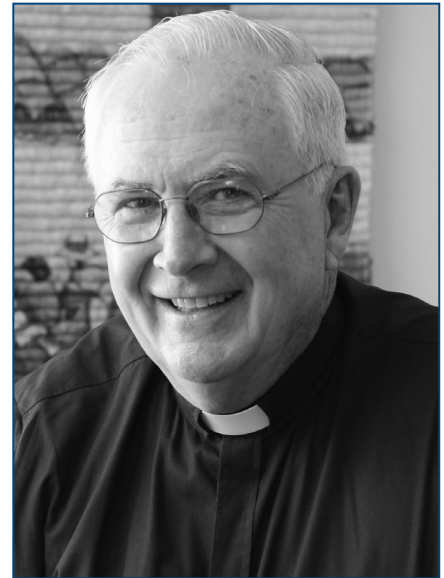

The Rev. John P. Foley of the Society of Jesus founded Cristo Rey Jesuit High School in Chicago in 1996, offering a vision and hope to a population in significant need of education and upward mobility. In the 15 years since the founding of the original school, Cristo Rey Schools have become nationally recognized as models of innovation, inspiration and success.

A native of Chicago, John Foley entered the Society of Jesus in 1954 and was ordained in 1967. He spent more than three decades as a teacher and administrator at Jesuit schools in South America before returning to Chicago in 1995 to participate in the planning of a Jesuit high school intended to serve immigrant children on Chicago's south side. Father Foley served as its first president, embracing a unique corporate work study model that engaged the business community in education and made education relevant for students.

Today, there are 24 Cristo Rey schools nationwide that share many common characteristics. They are Catholic and sponsored by a religious order; the schools serve economically disadvantaged families; and the schools promote a college-bound culture through implementation of a rigorous college-preparatory curriculum. Most distinctly, Cristo Rey students participate in a job-sharing program in a professional environment.

During his eight years as president, Father Foley raised more than $26 million for Cristo Rey. He established the tradition and spirit of a school that has become a national model. In January of 2005, Father Foley assumed the presidency of the Cristo Rey Network and now serves as Executive Chairman. In 2008 President Bush awarded him the Presidential Citizens Medal for his commitment in helping fellow citizens lead lives of integrity and achievement.

In recognition of his contributions to education and for demonstrating the ability of Catholic education to change lives, Creighton University confers upon the Rev. John P. Foley of the Society of Jesus the degree Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa.

HONORARY DEGREE

His Eminence Jaime Lucas Cardinal Ortega y Alamino

Doctor of Laws

*Presented by Michael J. Kelly, J.D., LL.M.
Professor of Law*

Pope Benedict XVI has emphasized that religious freedom is always relevant to the life of a nation. For 30 years, as Archbishop of Havana, Cardinal Jaime Ortega has dedicated his life to promoting religious freedom in Cuba.

Cardinal Ortega attended the Seminary of San Alberto Magno in Matanzas, Cuba, and the Seminary of the Fathers of Foreign Missions in Quebec. He was ordained in 1964 during a time of repression of the church in Cuba.

Cardinal Ortega served parishes in the Diocese of Matanzas and served as a professor at the San Carlos and San Ambrosio Seminary in Havana. Pope John Paul II named him Bishop of the Diocese of Pinar del Rio in 1978 and Archbishop of Havana in 1981. He was elevated to Cardinal-Priest in 1994.

In 1981 Cardinal Ortega and the Cuban Bishops' Conference initiated a nationwide reflection process culminating in the Cuban National Ecclesial Encounter in 1986, a milestone that has marked Cuban church history. This led to a new era of dialog and ultimately to the visit of Pope John Paul II in 1998. In this visit, the new dynamism of the Cuban Catholic Church was revealed to its people and to the world.

Last year, Cardinal Ortega proudly blessed and inaugurated the completion of a new diocesan seminary in Havana, the first newly constructed church building since 1959. He and the Cuban Bishops' Conference recently launched a national pilgrimage in preparation of the 400th anniversary, in 2012, of the discovery of the image of Nuestra Señora de la Caridad del Cobre in the history and life of the Cuban people. The pilgrimage is gathering impressive numbers under the theme "Charity Unites Us." During the past year, Cardinal Ortega served as a mediator between the government and families of political prisoners, securing the release of 126 political prisoners.

For his courageous leadership of the Catholic Church in Cuba and his staunch advocacy for human rights, Creighton University proudly confers upon His Eminence Jaime Lucas Cardinal Ortega y Alamino, Archbishop of Havana, Cuba, the degree Doctor of Laws, honoris causa.

STAGE PARTY AND FACULTY RECESSIONAL

THE CREIGHTON STUDENTS UNION

ROBERT F. KENNEDY MEMORIAL AWARD FOR TEACHING ACHIEVEMENT

Shirley A. Blanchard, Ph.D.

*Presented by Douglas B. McAcy
President, Creighton Students Union*

Creighton students know why Creighton University is one of the premiere private universities nationwide: exceptional faculty.

Students who search for Dr. Shirley Blanchard on campus are likely to find her wearing one of many hats – researching, teaching or simply caring for her students.

Throughout a career that spans more than 30 years, Dr. Blanchard has contributed to the field of health care as an occupational therapist, researcher, educator and advisor. Her knowledge in the field of occupational therapy has earned her recognition from the University and the professional community. That knowledge is demonstrated in her teaching ability and style, and is evidenced by the success of the many students she has taught and mentored.

In the words of her student nominators, “Dr. Blanchard’s ability to inspire students and to present subject matter in an interesting and effective manner so as to stimulate maximum learning is founded on bringing real life to the classroom. Students not only learn about occupational therapy principles, concepts and skills, but also about human strength, love, empowerment, courage, fear and empathy as a context for their roles in a helping profession.”

Dr. Blanchard has distinguished herself as a professor who exemplifies the Creighton mission and Jesuit ideals. She has successfully reached beyond the norms of teaching to embody the Jesuit value of cura personalis, stressing the importance of the development of and care for the whole person.

The Creighton Students Union is honored to recognize Dr. Shirley A. Blanchard of the School of Pharmacy and Health Professions as the 2011 recipient of the Robert F. Kennedy Memorial Student Award for Teaching Achievement.

ALUMNI ACHIEVEMENT AWARD

Cage S. Johnson, MD'65

*Presented by Laura C. Simic
Interim Vice President, University Relations*

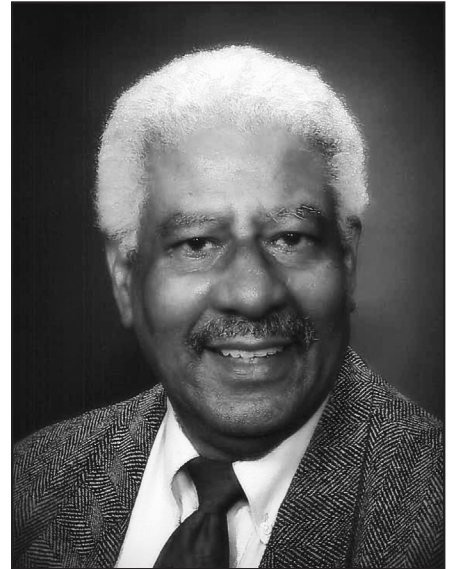

Dr. Cage Johnson is among the world's leading authorities on sickle cell disease, a serious disorder in which the body manufactures misshapen red blood cells that block blood flow and cause severe pain, infections and organ damage. As an expert in the history, pathophysiology, manifestations and treatment of the disease, Dr. Johnson is a scientist of international renown. He has been called upon to share his expertise with the National Institutes of Health, the National Science Foundation, the Food and Drug Administration and the Sickle Cell Foundation.

After graduating from the School of Medicine in 1965, Dr. Johnson completed an internship with Cincinnati General Hospital and residencies at Cincinnati General and the University of Southern California, followed by a fellowship at the latter. He is currently professor of medicine at the Keck School of Medicine and director of the University of Southern California Comprehensive Sickle Cell Center, one of 10 clinical and research centers funded by the National Heart, Lung, and Blood Institute of the National Institutes of Health to serve as national centers of basic, clinical and applied research into sickle cell disease.

Dr. Johnson's research has centered on erythrocyte disorders. The program has developed a model for mature erythrocytes from hematopoietic stem cells, so that the physical characteristics of such cells can be compared to circulating erythrocytes, to better understand how sickle cells obtain their cytoplasmic and membrane abnormalities and their adhesive properties. Dr. Johnson has mentored dozens of medical residents and hematology fellows and greatly impacted curriculum through his discoveries, adding to the overall body of medical knowledge.

Equally important is Dr. Johnson's commitment to living Ignatian values. His life has been spent as a man for others, in service to the underserved and vulnerable. He has said, "This disease causes people to get beaten down ... they need to feel something is being done." His work has had major impact on African Americans, who are the predominant sufferers of the disease. Because of Dr. Johnson's efforts, the outcome for people with sickle cell disease has been constantly improving.

In recognition of his contributions to humanity, the University is pleased to award Cage S. Johnson, M.D., the Creighton University Alumni Achievement Citation.

CREIGHTON UNIVERSITY HISTORY

Edward and John Creighton, sons of Irish immigrants, were key figures in the development of the first transcontinental telegraph, and pioneer leaders in Omaha and Nebraska. They provided the inspiration for the comprehensive university which bears their name.

The brothers married the Wareham sisters, Mary Lucretia and Sarah Emily. It was Mary Lucretia who honored husband Edward's dream of building a university to educate the children of pioneers. Upon her death on January 23, 1876, she left a bequest to purchase the present university site, and the first Bishop of Omaha, the Right Reverend James O'Connor, sought out the Jesuits to lead the fledgling college.

One priest, three scholastics, a layman and a woman were the first faculty members to greet the 120 students when Creighton opened its doors on September 2, 1878. On August 14, 1879, Bishop O'Connor formally surrendered the trust to a new corporation, "The Creighton University."

Jesuits were exclusive managers of the corporation until, in October 1968, the board of directors was expanded to include lay persons. Today, 32 lay persons and six Jesuits conduct the corporate affairs of Creighton University.

The early growth of Creighton University and the enlargement of its endowment were due mainly to the generosity and leadership provided by John A. Creighton and Sarah Emily Creighton.

The College of Arts and Sciences, the university's oldest and largest division, was founded in 1878. The College of Business Administration opened on September 20, 1920. The Graduate School was established as a separate division in 1926. Nursing programs began at Creighton in 1928, a separate College of Nursing was established in 1971 and, in 1978, became the School of Nursing. Professional schools and their dates of establishment are the School of Medicine, 1892; School of Law, 1904; School of Dentistry and School of Pharmacy, 1905. In 1982, the Division of Health Professions (formerly attached to the School of Medicine as the Division of Allied Health Sciences) was attached to the School of Pharmacy and now is the School of Pharmacy and Health Professions. University College, designed for adult part-time students, opened in the 1983 fall semester.

CEREMONIAL MACE

Creighton University established a new tradition at Winter Commencement 2005 with the inauguration of the University's first ceremonial mace.

In the Middle Ages, the mace was a club used in battle and carried by a bodyguard to defend a person of authority. Over the years, it began to lose its warlike image and became a symbol of peaceful leadership.

At an academic institution, the mace is the symbol of the legal and chartered authority of the people – usually the president and vice presidents - to whom the board of directors have delegated authority. When the ceremonial mace is present, the authority of the university is present. Use of the mace is reserved for occasions of outstanding importance and it is an honor to bear the mace. Carrying it today is the president of the University's Faculty, Dr. Thomas Coffey, Ph.D.

The mace was designed and fashioned by Brian K. Besack, Operation Supervisor of the University's carpenter shop, at the invitation of Creighton's President, the Reverend John P. Schlegel, S.J., to commemorate the 125th anniversary of the University.

Using a cherry wood baluster from a long abandoned staircase in the attic of the Administration building, the oldest building on Creighton's campus, Mr. Besack designed and fashioned the shaft, head and foot of the mace. Each facet of the nine-sided head displays a bronze, gold-plated medallion bearing the name and founding date of the University's schools and colleges. Its foot is sheathed in gold-plated brass and cradled in its shaft rests the official seal of the University. At its top, the mace is crowned with a three-dimensional blue and gold medallion symbol of the Society of Jesus.

ACADEMIC ATTIRE

The history of academic dress reaches far back into the early days of the oldest universities. A statute of 1321 required that all “Doctors, Licentiates, and Bachelors” of the University of Coimbra wear gowns. In England, in the second half of the 14th century, the statutes of certain colleges forbade “excess in apparel” and prescribed the wearing of a long gown.

While European institutions continue to show great diversity in their specifications of academic dress, American colleges and universities generally have adopted the Intercollegiate Code for Academic Costumes. This code specifies design characteristics of gowns, hoods, caps and tassels, including pattern, material, color, trimmings, etc.

For all academic purposes, including trimmings of doctors’ gowns, edging of hoods, and tassels of caps, the colors associated with the different subjects are as follows:

Agriculture.....	Maize	Nursing.....	Apricot
Architecture.....	Blue Violet	Occupational Therapy.....	Ink Blue
Arts, Letters, Humanities.....	White	Oratory (Speech).....	Silver Gray
Commerce, Accountancy, Business.....	Nugget	Pharmacy.....	Olive Green

CREIGHTON CREST (SEE COVER)

Creighton President the Rev. John P. Schlegel, S.J., unveiled a University crest in 2009 that includes elements representing the Creighton family, Creighton’s Jesuit tradition and the Omaha Archdiocese.

The gold stripes on the red field, in the upper left-hand quadrant of the shield, comes from the family coat of arms of St. Ignatius of Loyola, the founder of the Society of Jesus or Jesuits. The lion rampant comes from the Creighton family coat of arms and the three seashells on a field of white and red comes from the Wareham family coat of arms – giving nod to Creighton University’s founding families. The design for the shield’s final quadrant, in the lower left, comes from the coat of arms of the Archdiocese of Omaha. The starburst behind the shield is from the seal of the Society of Jesus.
