My question concerns event parking in the Creighton lots. I'm a staff member who has a parking sticker. When I attended a soccer game recently, I mentioned to the parking lot attendant that I was an employee and asked if I would have to pay for parking. He asked me if I was faculty. When I said no, he said, "Sorry. Only faculty and students get free parking." If this is the "rule" concerning event parking on campus, why is staff exempted from the privilege of free parking?

My hope is they misunderstood what the attendant said but we have reserved lots for faculty and staff (not students) in certain lots (may not always be that specific lot depending on the specific event (msoc, wsoc, vb). We also do the same for students. Again it may not always be the closest spot but we will have a spot for them.

If anyone has any questions on gameday, I would suggest talking with parking lot attendant or parking supervisor that evening.

If you have questions, please let me know.

I exercise at the KFC 3-4 mornings each week. Since mid-August and the renovation of the locker rooms I have only had 2-3 times where the shower actually had hot water. It seems crazy that after a multi-million dollar renovation that access to hot water has gotten worse. Before the renovation, I would have to let the water run a few minutes (3-5 minutes) to get hot water, but now even after a full 10 minute shower there is still no hot water. This needs to be addressed.

Thank you for addressing your concerns about the hot water issue in the KFC. The initial issue was due to a part breaking on our hot water heater while water was off over the course of renovations. The part was on back order and took a couple weeks to get to us. It was my understanding that hot water was back working after they installed that part until I received another complaint Tuesday last week. Facilities made those repairs immediately and hot water was returned Wednesday of last week. After testing water in one of the single-use locker rooms this morning it seems we still have hot water.

If this is not the case in the women's locker room, or if you ever experience a cold shower please notify our Building Supervisor officed on the Northeast corner of court A so they can call in a work order to facilities. I apologize for not having hot water immediately upon opening the locker rooms. Moving forward please feel free to notify us so we can make appropriate repairs. Thank you.
