Engage

IN A LIVING-LEARNING EXPERIENCE

You're invited to help create an enriching learning environment for Honors students by sharing your journey and wisdom. We know that out-of-classroom learning experiences are powerful and impactful for students. Schedule your visit to the Creighton Honors Community today.

“The Visiting Scholars Program gives students the opportunity to take what they're learning in the classroom into their own space. It opens up students to new points of view.” -Tim Foster, Honors/Scholars Resident Advisor

THE VIEW FROM UP HERE

The Honors Visiting Scholars Program was designed to expose the Honors Scholars Community to community members, alumni, and experts in a wide range of academic and professional fields.

No two Visiting Scholar experiences are the same. Visiting Scholars can work with the Honors Community Director to plan a unique, interactive visit that will be memorable for students and scholars alike. In the past, speakers have shared their experiences as entrepreneurs, discussed advocacy in the community, shared insight on social issues, and reflected on issues of global diversity.

Accommodations

The Honors Community is home to 52 first year students. The floor features a kitchen, study lounges, and community spaces. The Honors floor is a tight-knit, lively community which enthusiastically welcomes guests.

Visiting Scholars are provided comfortable overnight accommodations within our community. The visiting scholar apartment includes a bedroom, bathroom, living room, and kitchenette.
