

Amy Haddad, PhD

Director, Center for Health Policy and Ethics

Dr. C.C. and Mabel L. Criss Endowed Chair in Health Sciences

Program Director, Master of Science in Health Care Ethics

Creighton University

2500 California Plaza

Omaha, NE 68178

Phone: 402-280-2164

Email: ahaddad@creighton.edu

Biography

Dr. Amy Haddad is the Director for the Center for Health Policy & Ethics and the Dr. C.C. and Mabel L. Criss Endowed Chair in the Health Sciences. She first became involved in education in the health sciences at College of Saint Mary in their nursing program in 1979, then moved on to Creighton in 1984 where she has since taught ethics in the health sciences and developed the Master of Public Health program in 2011. She led the effort to establish the Master of Science in Health Care Ethics program in 2009.

Dr. Haddad is a nationally known expert in ethics education, providing leadership in the development of novel methods to shape ethically competent and committed health professionals.

Areas of Interest

Teaching and learning in ethics education whether in a face-to-face environment or online;
Creative writing and using narrative to teach ethics; Scholarship of teaching and learning re:
Ethics; Connection between emotions and ethics