

All Things Ignatian

The Heart Ministry Health Center

Creighton Partnership Began October 2009

The Team

Cura Personalis extends to the whole team

Care of the “whole person” starts with the service providers. The Heart Ministry Health Center is comprised of a team of caring individuals. Each brings a unique personal and professional perspective —we have cared for each other, enabling us to care for others.

Ignatian Values in Action!

Cura Personalis---care of the entire person. It is an Ignatian value that permeates through Creighton University and all that it embodies. “Cura Personalis” suggests individualized attention to the needs of the other,, distinct respect for his or her unique circumstances and concerns, and an appropriate appreciation for his or her particular gifts and insights.

HEART MINISTRY HEALTH CENTER

The Mission

The Heart Ministry Center is located at 22nd and Binney Street across from Sacred Heart School and in close proximity to Blessed Sacrament School, the Jesuit Middle School, and the Omaha Street School. The Center serves some of the city’s poorest citizens with 30% of the households living under the poverty line.

The Benefits for Many

The establishment of a health clinic at the Heart Ministry Center makes sense for all the right reasons.

For the Community:

There is an immediate need for acute care for the families living in the Sacred Heart neighborhood as well as a need for disease prevention and health promotion programs.

For Creighton Students and Faculty

The Health Ministry Clinic provides an interdisciplinary and holistic approach to health care. Not unlike many other undertakings at Creighton, this establishes a venue for students and faculty from many disciplines to work together to provide care and services. Expertise from a variety of disciplines (Nursing, Pharmacy, Occupational Therapy, Physical Therapy, Dentistry, Social Work, and Medicine) is essential for comprehensive, compassionate, and competent care.

Current services include clinic hours for acute medical needs, sports physicals, vaccinations, health screenings, preventative health services, accessing social services, health education sessions, diet monitoring and dental services, plus partnering with schools to provide health care services and education.

For the Heart Ministry Center

Heart Ministry Center has an established clientele that regularly receives ancillary services. The provision of health care serves to supplement the services already being provided.
