

SAC Feedback Submissions - August 2018

So I went to get my parking pass this morning and after waiting in line for 20 minutes, I was not allowed to pick it up to an old ticket I was told was waived the day it was received. So after wasting time waiting in line to get the parking pass, because I wasn't told in advance there was an issue, I then had to call and get things settled. So now i have to go back over and wait in line again. This has not been handled well, and is really frustrating.

No answer was available due to the anonymous nature of the submission. Individual situations are different and require more research to provide appropriate resolution.

Is there a way to opt out of the Creighton Magazine and Jesuit Connections Magazine? I don't read them and they immediately get recycled. We talk about stewardship of resources but these just seem like a waste of paper to print, and manpower for the mail people to have to sort them to be delivered.

Thanks for passing that along. One thing that might be worth noting is that Jesuit Connections is not produced by Creighton. And more generally — no, I don't think there is a simple way to opt-out staff members of either publication.

As for Creighton magazine specifically, we'd hope all staff members would find some value in an award-winning magazine devoted to telling the University's story and the many ways those associated with it are living its mission.

--Glenn Antonucci, Senior Director of Communications