Sustainability in the Built Environment: Design and Goals

How does the built environment factor into Creighton's commitment to sustainability? Join Stuart Shell, Katherine Osterman, and Andres Rodriguez-Burns from Forte Building Science for this short workshop on the latest trends in green building. In addition to giving an overview of popular certification programs like LEED and WELL, the presenters will share a framework for tracking sustainability goals. The presenters will also introduce community commitments such as District 2030 as avenues for managing sustainability goals. Katherine (BS'14) and Andres (BA'15) are both graduates of Creighton University's College of Arts and Sciences.
