Inspired by Jesuit values, we are dedicated to providing quality and compassionate healthcare to the underserved in the Greater Omaha community. As part of Creighton University, we also work towards forming and educating students to be agents of change.*

Statement of Values

Founded in 2004 by Creighton University School of Medicine students, the Magis Clinic is dedicated to:

- Providing the standard of care to men and women of all ages and backgrounds
- Cooperating with other healthcare providers to maintain continuity of care
- Instilling in patients a sense of value for one's own health
- Fostering in students a lifelong commitment to service

The Magis Clinic and its partners provide free healthcare and referrals to existing community services. It is the first free medical clinic in Omaha.

Who We Are

Founded and run by students of the Creighton University School of Medicine since 2004, the Magis Clinic serves the homeless and uninsured of Omaha.

The Magis Clinic's services are provided by volunteers from Creighton's Medical, Pharmacy, and Physician Assistant Schools. Services include basic acute primary care consultations and follow-up, physical exams, mental health care, STD testing, laboratory services, including basic blood tests, and medications. Magis Clinic volunteers also partner with the Charles Drew Health Center, coordinating their efforts to achieve the mission of the Magis Clinic.

Who We Serve

The Magis Clinic provides no charge drop-in acute care, psychiatric services, and sexual health services to all men and women, who find themselves homeless or with limited or no access to healthcare resources. The majority of our patient population comes from local homeless shelters, including the Siena-Francis House in which the clinic is located, as well as substance abuse treatment centers. The clinic also see patients free of charge who are not homeless but are otherwise unable to afford adequate healthcare.

Magis: A Latin adverb meaning “more greatly”. Its origin is in the Jesuit motto A.M.D.G: ad majorem Dei gloriam or “towards the greater glory of God.”
