

THE SAINT JOHN'S BIBLE

Heritage Edition

We at Creighton are fortunate to have a Heritage Edition of The Saint John's Bible on campus thanks to Mike and Nancy McCarthy, who have kindly loaned their set to the Creighton community through June 2022. The Heritage Edition, when not in use for events around campus, is available for viewing in the Rare Books Room on the main level of Reinert-Alumni Memorial Library.

Fr. Hendrickson blesses the newly arrived seven-volume Heritage Edition at the Mass of the Holy Spirit 2015.

Sharing the Word

Classes, departments, organizations and alumni, as well as groups from outside of Creighton, engage with the Heritage Edition across campus and in the Rare Books Room.

Lexie Kafka, graduate intern with The Saint John's Bible, and M.A. in Ministry students

Participants from the Institute for Priestly Formation, a Rare Books Room intern, and Revelation

Taize prayer service at St. John's Church

Celebrating the Word

Our Heritage Edition volumes are used for Mass, prayer services, and various worship events at St. John's Church and other venues on campus.

Following the Law School's Red Mass (2018), Archbishop Lucas (center), Governor Ricketts (back left) and several Nebraska and Iowa judges view the Heritage Edition with Hannah Clark, graduate intern with The Saint John's Bible.

Christmas Eve at St. John's Church

The gold lines used throughout this poster, artistic elements from the Psalms volume, are oscilloscopic readings of the chants of Benedictine monks

Spreading the Word

Partners from the Creighton community and the surrounding Omaha area have allowed us to share the Heritage Edition illuminations outside of campus borders, including online.

Creighton University faculty, staff and administrators merge profession and faith as they speak on the sacred text and art of The Saint John's Bible in our video series, "Lighting the Word."

Our Sermon Project invites area ministers to feature an illumination in their worship. The Gospels and Acts volume was at Kountze Memorial Lutheran Church in October 2018.

MISSION WEEK