InfoEd External Email Notification

You may have noticed that emails coming from InfoEd (including approval and salary release requests) have the following information included at the top:

While the emails come from spa@creighton.edu, they are sent directly from the InfoEd system and, thus, are sent from an external source. These emails can be trusted and you can safely click on the included links.

Feel free to contact Sponsored Programs Administration at spa@creighton.edu if you have any questions.

Creighton University Libraries Research Services

Discover the valuable support and resources available to researchers through our Creighton University Libraries Research Services, designed to enhance your scholarly pursuits with practical assistance and essential tools:

Data Services & Research Data Management can assist with:

- Writing and reviewing Data Management and Sharing Plans, including the use of DMPTool
- Compliance with public access funder mandates and journal data sharing requirements
- Identifying and using data repositories to preserve and share your data
- Reviewing metadata standards and documentation to ensure that your data is searchable and citable
- Searching for publicly available data

Other library services for researchers:

- Research Consultations: Schedule an individual consultation with a librarian
- Literature Search Service: Consult with our librarians for a search of published literature on your specific topic, including support for systematic reviews
- Scholarly Communications: Receive guidance and support for the scholarly publishing process, including open access
- RefWorks: Use the web-based personal bibliographic database manager to create your own bibliographic database, format bibliographies, and share references with colleagues
- Interlibrary Loan: Request books and articles not available at Creighton at no cost
- IDEA Hub: Collaborate with the IDEA Hub to develop both short- and long-term projects using innovative technology like VR, computational humanities, and technologically rich media projects
- Recommend Purchases: Suggest materials to add to our collections using our 'Recommend a Purchase' form

Upcoming Events:

Join the Creighton University Libraries for a Love Data Week Workshop on data sharing. We will cover how to make your data FAIR (Findable, Accessible, Interoperable, and Reusable) to maximize its reuse value and how to choose the best repository for your research data.

The workshop will be held via Zoom on February 16th at 3 pm CST/2 PM MST. Register at https://creighton.libwizard.com/f/love_data_24 to receive the link to join the session live and to receive the recording of the workshop.

Contact Our Librarians:

In-person and virtual consultations are available! Email or call to request sessions.
