Our Mission:
The Virtual Center for Teaching Excellence (vCTE) is a collaboration of faculty developers from across the University. The vCTE’s mission is to promote the value and practice of teaching to advance student learning by providing web access to the University’s development resources.

Collaborators:
- Office for Academic Excellence and Assessment
- The Center for eLearning and Academic Innovation
- Division of Information Technology
- Reinert-Alumni Library
- College of Nursing

What Does vCTE Offer?
- A “one stop shop” for faculty development resources and program information.
- Calendar of upcoming faculty development events across campus
- Resources for new faculty “preparing to teach”
- Teaching tips
- Introductory information on pedagogies, active learning strategies, assessment of student learning and more
- Monthly Teaching Blog
- Links to CU resources for distance and online educators
- FAQs about teaching with technology
- Links to library resources
- Links to teaching/learning journals
- Information on conferences and grants

Why Use the vCTE?
- Comprehensive resources for new and experienced faculty
- Quick access to pedagogical and academic technology information; avoid hours of search time
- Connect and collaborate with faculty experts on campus
- Learn about upcoming faculty development events
- Answers to teaching FAQs
- Quick links to library resources on teaching and learning
